

CBB's Green Guide: Toys that are fun and safe

By Bronwyn, CBB Fashion/Gear/Reviews Editor

It's important that the toys our little ones play with be safe and as natural as possible for many reasons. Most importantly because kids tend to put toys in their mouths. If all the toy recalls from last year taught us anything, we should now realize how important it is to watch out for toxic materials, such as paint!

Here are some basic tips for going green with your child's toys:

- Go for wood
- Go for PVC-free
- Go for no batteries
- Go for second hand
- Go for non-toxic paints
- Go for locally made

Who would have thought a children's card game could be eco-conscious, but Xeko is! Players collect and trade cards to create personalized decks and compete with friends to build the strongest Xeko-system. Gather the most Eco-points by supporting your Species cards while conserving cards in your draw pile.
